

The first thing I did was choose a design that looked simple.

I then picked out all the possible components for my project, starting with the profile page.

Here I listed the components that seemed to be the most necessary and built them out one at a time. (Only ended up using 4)

Components to build:

- 1. ~~Post Form~~
- 2. ~~"You might like" section (add last if we have time)~~
 - ~~○ Follow component~~
 - ~~○ Profile Picture / name component~~
- 3. ~~"What's happening" section~~
 - ~~○ Filler content~~
- 4. ~~Comment Post~~
 - ~~○ Profile Picture / name component~~
 - ~~○ Follow component~~
 - ~~○ Filler content~~
- 5. ~~Left Nav bar~~
 - ~~○ List of links~~
- 6. ~~Middle nav bar (only used once so no component?)~~
- 7. ~~profilePage~~

I began mocking this up before I realizing it was unnecessary.

I didn't follow through with the design due to time constraints and prioritizing functionality, and even that I did not complete.

I put together a sitemap, but this also felt unnecessary since I would only be building out 2 pages.
